

The Eyes Have It

The doctors at Anderson & Shapiro Eye Care have been around a long time, and they've seen it all. They each had more than 30 years of experience before they came together as Anderson & Shapiro Eye Care 12 years ago.

“We wanted to meld our high-tech, clinical training and experience with a small, boutique, family-style atmosphere,” says Dr. Shapiro. And, in keeping with this philosophy, Dr. Anderson’s daughter Nicole Anderson-Weiss will be joining our practice September 1.

Anderson and Shapiro were the first in the Madison area to offer LASIK, and have performed over 25,000 refractive eye procedures, including on Dr. Shapiro’s own son, a commercial airline pilot. Now they’re once again at the forefront with ReStor intraocular lenses, essentially bifocal implants for cataract patients.

“If you were ever told you weren’t a candidate for a procedure like LASIK in the past, you need to come in for a free consultation,” says Dr. Shapiro. “Technology has improved so much it’s a rare patient that we don’t have something to offer.”
